It's been a massive year for Asset Management Engineers, and certainly a year we can all be very proud of.

Externally as an industry I think we can all agree we have faced some obstacles in 2014 adjusting to the reality of a 'normal market' in the wake of the mining boom downturn. Despite this AME has come out of 2014 bigger and stronger than ever.

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank all of those who have made this possible including our dedicated management team, fantastic staff, inspectors and specialists, our partners, suppliers and associated organisations and of course our clients and supporters.

Over the last 12 months we've seen many internal changes including streamlining our business systems, expanding our service offering and welcoming a large handful of new staff, specialists and managers.

We have planned well across all aspects of our business and have been successful in gaining and maintaining long term and profitable business with some of the largest resource companies in the world. As industry leaders we have continued to train our staff and hundreds of others in classified plant, always staying true and accountable to our company values of being Honest, Passionate, Responsive and Quality Focussed.

Thank you to all of those who have shared in and contributed to AME's major accomplishments in 2014.

The Year in Short:

- Continued developing a successful branch in Kalgoorlie.
- Increased AME staff by almost 20%
- Expanded our Non-Destructive Testing (NDT) team and services with the addition of new specialists and Asset Management Consultant Grace Jenkins.
- Re-developed and updated our Classified Plant Management System (CPMS) bringing it online using cloud based software called Inspection Toolbox.

- Expanded our Training services, increasing the frequency of programs to keep up with industry demand.
- Became the first Authorised Partner of Plant Assessor to broaden our service offering to include comprehensive Plant Risk Assessments.
- Won several two and three year contracts with highly regarded mining and resource organisations for Classified Plant Management and Inspections.
- Invited to make a submission to become a business partner of an iconic Australian Mining and Resources organisations (only 5% of their vendors reach this status)

After a year like that I think we have all deserved a break, so we will be closing the AME office at 5pm on Thursday 18th December and will reopen ready for another fantastic year in 2015 on Monday January 5th . Of course we are still available during the Christmas period for urgent support by phoning our office on (08) 9466 7444.

Happy Holidays, Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year!

Regards,

Trevor Hughes &
The AME Team
